

MONEY WORD SEARCH

Teaching children about money when they're young helps them understand how it works. Many parents wonder how they can teach kids about money. As part of Great Midwest Bank's Financial Education For Kids series, we've created this word search activity page.

Tips on how to teach saving habits at ages 9-12

At this age, your child may be interested in "finding" ways to earn money and what they might do with more money.

- Set a goal of saving to buy a new video game
- Determine how much your child needs to save
- Identify chores or tasks your child can do to earn money
- Discuss shopping at different places to find the best price for the video game
- Use any remaining money to start saving for the next goal
